

SPEEDY FLIV RUM RUNNER IS NABBED

German "Pincer" System Used by Officers to Catch
"Dixie Corn Flyer."

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 22.—Battered relic of many successful races with the law, a dilapidated, especially geared Ford car locally famous as the "Dixie Corn Flyer," has at last come into lawful hands.

The car has been sold by Sheriff Jackson for $25.00 to David Haynes. It was seized by the officers some time ago when, after many unsuccessful attempts to overhaul it on the broad highways they worked the German "pincer" system on it and hemmed it in at Newton's bridge.

After vain attempts to ram the car through the surrounding cordon of officers, Lee Kenney, its owner, surrendered it loaded with whisky and himself. He went to the chain gang and the car to the auction block, much battered from being rammed into the bridge when the driver found himself surrounded, with no avenue of escape. According to officials the car got its name from the number of times it was able to outrun the officers and escape with its cargoes of booze.

THREE-MINUTE JOURNEYS

HERE ENGAGED COUPLES BUY WEDDING OUTFITS FOR EACH OTHER.

Sicily is a small island in the Mediterranean sea belonging to Italy. It is situated southwest of Italy, and is separated from it by the Strait of Messina. Here a young man and woman were wed about her trousseau, or the groom-to-be about what he is going to wear to the altar.

But—worse still! The groom must go shopping for the young woman's trousseau, and she in turn buys or makes his wedding outfit. Perhaps the most serious angle in this problem is that neither knows how his or her outfit will look until they are ready to wear them on "banns day." As a result, sometimes the wedding clothes are becoming and sometimes they are not. Perhaps they fit, maybe they don't.

In Sicily a young woman is usually wed at 15, that being the legal age for marriage. She is no more than a child, but how busily she sews on the shirt or waistcoat her fiancé is to wear on their bridal day. Perhaps she has scarcely even had a good look at her fiancé, and maybe she wonders just what he is going to look like, and what he is going to buy for her.

A Sicilian maiden is forbidden to look a man in the face until she is married. She is taken to church with her face carefully hidden by her mantilline, and is never permitted to go to business. Her father does not even entertain his friends at home if he has unmarried daughters, but takes them to a nearby cafe.

Therefore, selecting a wedding outfit for a man is "quite a chore" for the maid of Sicily.

As for the young man, he may have stolen a look at the lady of his heart while she passed on her way to church with her mother, or at the time when his people called at her home with him to ask her hand in marriage.

The young man selects a dress, a lace mantilline and a silk handkerchief for his bride-to-be. She in turn makes a waistcoat, a shirt and a pair of trousers for him. The wedding outfits are worn first on a fortnight before the marriage when the families call at the home of the vicar to notify him to publish the marriage banns.

Perhaps, though, the bride gets a little satisfaction out of the unique arrangement. If she does not look quite as well as Mrs. Turiddu, who was married a few days before, she can at least say that it was not her fault! If she could have selected her own trousseau—well, it might have been different—but!

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

AN AVERAGE WOMAN.

I am a bourgeois. Nobody ever told me this. It dawned on me gradually when I discovered that there was only one true synonym for "bourgeois."

Smart young Socialists just out of college write books about me, and I buy them, read them and say, "Is THAT so?"

But that's all I ever do about it. I wear a wedding-ring, use my husband's name and treat my cook with politeness, but do not borrow her powder-rag.

I would not dare to speak to her as frankly as she speaks to me. I cheerfully ride in a Flivver and always stand in the subway, because I am too well-bred to scramble for a seat.

If a gentleman offers me a seat

Indigestion and Dyspepsia Overcome

Victims of stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, and their allied complaints find Tanlac an ever-ready source of relief and comfort. Thousands of people have refound the joys of health by its use after everything else they tried had failed.

Mr. Joseph Heckell, of West Oak St., South Bend, Ind., says: "I couldn't eat a thing but what hurt me. I got to having from one to three fainting spells a day, and wasn't expected to live much longer. But now I eat anything, never have a fainting spell and can do as big a day's work as the best of them. I give Tanlac all the credit."

Tanlac helps the stomach digest the food properly and eliminates waste. Soon the whole system is built up, the blood is purified and the entire body takes on new tone, vitality and energy. Get a bottle today and start on the road to health. For sale by all good druggists.

In a trolley car I say, "Thank you"—and immediately feel very Victorian.

I pay a first-class rent for a second-class apartment, and am grateful for the privilege.

I permit the sugar barons, the coal barons and the oil barons to maltreat me, and allow myself to be crowded off the top of the omnibus or shoved off the sidewalk by the honest working class.

I work hard for my living, pay my bills, keep my finger-nails polished and pin my faith to a hair-net.

I prefer Milton to Amy Lowell, Tom Moore to free verse, Emerson to Freud, and Velasquez to the cubists.

I have never had a complex, a diamond tiara or a family scandal. But I've had appendicitis, a trip to Niagara Falls and four varieties of "the flu."

I obey the law, and when a policeman stops my Flivver I say, "Yes, Officer, I'm sorry," before he has told me of what I am guilty.

I permit myself to be patronized by salesladies, bullied by box-office men, and held up by waiters and taxicab drivers.

In winter I freeze in sleeveless dresses, and in summer I smelt in fur-collared capes, because that's what the shops insist on selling me.

I MUST believe in Heaven and a future life, because here on earth I am just about as loved and respected as a German mark.

I read the Bible for comfort. I

NEED Comfort!
I am a bourgeois.
And the only true synonym for "bourgeois" is—hush! How did you guess it?

Pastor's Plea for Boys

Gains Mercy of Jurist

Carlos Waggoner and Ever McCullough were given suspended sentences of from one to 14 years in the state reform school by Judge Walter Funk in the Circuit court Thursday after they had pleaded guilty to grand larceny, charged against them by Thomas Elder.

The youths, together with a third party, William Sparr, who was not arraigned Thursday, confessed to stealing one roll-top sink and one porcelain stool valued at $50 from Elder last January. Rev. G. W. Titus of Mishawaka was successful in his plea to the court for suspended sentences for the boys.

Chicago's Death Rate

Showing Big Decrease

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The Chicago death rate decreased for the years 1919 to 1921 inclusive as compared with the previous seven years according to a report issued by the city health department today.

For the last three years the death rate was 12.12 as compared to 14.87 for the seven years preceding.

METHOD:

HARTFORD CITY, Sept. 21.—When a tank of molten glass at the Smith glass factory here sprang a leak, a fire hose was turned in on the glass. The glass cooled and closed the hole. Only a small amount of glass was lost and no one was hurt.

SECRET OF A GOOD DISPOSITION

A woman who carefully safeguards her health benefits her disposition. She will be happy and attractive to all. The world unfortunately is filled with sweet women who are unhappy because they are held back from usefulness by troubles so common among them. Prettiness and nervousness rapidly destroy good dispositions. Sickly, all-worn-out women cannot make happy homes.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a safeguard of women's health. This is clearly proven by the many letters we are continually publishing in this paper, from women who have been restored to health and happiness by its use after years of suffering. Why don't you try it?

Traction

An Effective Tread

Study the contour and tread of the Firestone Heavy Duty Cushion. You will see why this tire has earned such a reputation for efficient traction.

The deep groove at the center has powerful shoulders that take hold of the surface of the road with stronger grip as the load is increased. In mud or sand, and on steep grades, every ounce of power is utilized for a steady, forward pull.

The Firestone Heavy Duty Cushion is built with a high profile and extra volume of rubber. By its scientific shape the constant jars from road impact are distributed and absorbed. It is a real cushion, giving increased protection to trucks with reduced operating costs.

It has other valuable features—unfailing base adhesion, unusual heat radiation and large carrying capacity.

Come in and let us tell you about its economical performance on trucks in this vicinity. It can be easily applied to your units, with practically no loss of time.
